FM WEEKLY
COMMUNICATION

Issue 135

Dear FM Team,

We would like to acknowledge the recent work that FM employees contributed to the Temple Grandin sculpture located within Animal Sciences in the atrium of the JBS addition. On 9/13, the College of Agricultural Sciences had a dedication ceremony and unveiling of the sculpture; Temple Grandin, Dean James Pritchett, and President McConnell all spoke at the event. Check out the SOURCE article about it.

Capital Construction PM Milt Brown pulled in Remodel & Construction Services (RCS) for this project as part of the College of Agricultural Sciences' commitment to public art through the Animal Sciences Addition. Milt said, "I would like to extend a special thanks to the RCS team, Dr. Bob Delmore, David Anderson, and Prime Meridian Media, for their collaboration, professionalism, artistry, creativity and research to produce this incredible tribute to Dr. Temple Grandin. It was an honor for each of us to be a part of this amazing project honoring Dr. Grandin's life and her overwhelming contributions to the Ag industry." The RCS team assisted the artist and created the base for this sculpture. PM Garrett Dreiling commented this project was an absolute pleasure to work on and thank you to everyone involved. "Hats off to Dr. Grandin and the amazing person she continues to be. She has definitely opened some doors for our fellow and future Rams." The following FM employees were recognized for their contributions:

Milt Brown – Project Manager
Garrett Dreiling – Project Manager
Kim Bartlett – Interior Design
Shelby Norris – Design Intern
John Smith – Carpentry
Curtis Colburn – Carpentry
Zack Deitrick – Carpentry
Glen Clatterbuck – Carpentry
David March – Carpentry

Thanks,

Dan Kozlowski
Assistant Director of Remodel & Construction Services

Tom Satterly, P.E.
Associate Vice President for Facilities Management
